April Busy Month For Postoffice

Receipts Go Higher Than Anytime In Last Nine Years

Circleville postoffice business, which started to increase several months ago and has shown a steady rise since that time, reached a new peak for April. Postmaster Hulse Hays disclosed Tuesday, after completing his check for the last month, that postal receipts reached a total of $3,240.69, considerably above April for 1938.

The month topped the $3,000 mark for the first time, the postmaster said in reporting figures for each year since 1931. "The nearest approach we have made to the $3,000 mark was in 1937," Mr. Hays said, "when postal figures for April reached $2,986.32."

Other April reports include: 1938, $2,769.49; 1936, $2,856.81; 1935, $2,667.72; 1934, $2,140.54; 1933, $2,434.24; 1932, $2,477.50, and 1931, $2,787.59.

The postmaster credited increased business of the city's larger industries for the postal receipt gain.

Receipt of stamps of the new presidential series was announced. The stamps are now available. They include the 18-cent Garfield, 19-cent Arthur, 20-cent Grant, 21-cent Hayes, 24-cent Harrison, 25-cent William McKinley, 30-cent Theodore Roosevelt, and 50-cent William Howard Taft.

Aviator Completes Survey Of Government Bases In Week's Time

MANY INVENTIONS SHOWN

250 Officials At Langley Field Exhibit; New Wing Disclosed

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., May 2—Fresh from a week's flying survey of U. S. military air bases, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh warned government officials today that "unless we get going, we won't catch up with Germany in five years" in the aviation research activity that has given that country the mightiest air force in the world.

Lindbergh's warning was made last night as he accompanied 250 representatives of the aviation industry to inspect at Langley field the only aeronautical research facilities possessed by the federal government.

APRIL SETS NEW MARKS IN CADY COURT, HOSPITAL

April was a record-breaking month for collections at Berger hospital and in Mayor W. B. Cady's court.

Collections at the hospital totaled $2,746.58, shattering all previous records since the institution was opened. The largest previous collection for one month was December, 1938, when receipts amounted to $2,186.75.

Mayor Cady hung up a new record in his office when April collections totaled $813.90, including fines of $193.50, fees of $17.40 and bonds of $603. Included in the bonds were seven amounting to $50 each posted by persons arrested for participating in the "numbers" game. The mayor's report, prepared for council, states that $73.50 is the city's share of fines from state patrol cases and must be used in the street repair fund.

The collection is the largest by the mayor during any one month since he has been in office.

European Crisis Causes Demand For Expanded Force By 1940

WASHINGTON, May 2—Changing his plans in view of the unsettled conditions in Europe and the expiration of the cash-and-carry provisions of the Neutrality Act, President Roosevelt moved today to translate his authorized rearmament program into reality ahead of schedule.

An expanded air force of at least 5,000 fighting airplanes by July 1, 1940, and, perhaps, completion of the entire $552,000,000 defense program by that date, was seen by congressional defense experts in the President's request for an additional $277,000,000 in defense appropriations for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

The President's action, they said, indicated that since his special defense message in January, he has changed his mind concerning the speed with which the program should go forward. In that message he told congress that although he was seeking immediate authorization for the entire program (it has since been approved by congress), he did not plan to ask for appropriations for the next fiscal year in excess of $212,000,000.

FEDERALS HUNT AIDE OF 'BOSS'

Pendergast's Agent Leaves Suicide Notes For Kansas Citizens

KANSAS CITY, May 2—Investigative agents of three branches of the federal government swung into action today in a concerted attempt to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Edward J. Schneider, confidante of "Boss" Tom J. Pendergast, Kansas City political leader.

Although Schneider's car was found yesterday on a bridge over the Missouri river, and contained notes indicating he had committed suicide, agents of the F. B. I. the treasury department and the U. S. Attorney's office reportedly were investigating the possibility Schneider might have faked his death or had been murdered.

Schneider last was seen early yesterday. He was under subpoena to appear before the federal grand jury again after he testified for four days last week. He was considered a key man in the government's attempt to convict Pendergast for allegedly failing to report $443,550 of income for 1935 and 1936.

The government men did not dispute the theory Schneider had killed himself, but Maurice M. Milligan, U. S. attorney who obtained the tax evasion indictments against Pendergast, said he had asked for a full investigation to ascertain whether Schneider's indicated suicide was "a hoax, a suicide or if he met with foul play."

WILKIN, OHIO LAWYER, MAY WIN FEDERAL JUDGSHIP

WASHINGTON, May 2—Robert N. Wilkin, a New Philadelphia, O., lawyer and a former Ohio Supreme Court judge, is being considered for appointment as federal district judge in Cleveland, Senator Donahay's office reported today. Federal district judges receive $10,000 annually.

"No one has been decided on as yet, the names are now being considered by the Department of Justice," the senator's assistant said. The new judge will be nominated by President Roosevelt on Donahay's endorsement, members of the house Democratic delegation stated.

U. S. PREPARES TO INTERVENE IN COAL STRIKE

Miners, Operators Must Put Approval On Agreement Or Face Federal Move

BOTH SIDES ADAMANT

Foreign Fuel May Be Sent From Wales To Supply Needy Industries

NEW YORK, May 2—Federal intervention within the next 24 hours in the soft coal deadlock was expected today unless either the miners or the operators broach some plan for settlement of the critical controversy over a new wages and hours contract.

Despite the threat of Dr. John R. Steelman, the special federal mediator, that the government would submit a settlement plan of its own if the deadlock was not broken by Wednesday, both sides remained unyielding.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was scheduled to meet with his full policy committee of 150 miners from the soft coal fields of the Appalachian area to discuss the next step.

The adamant demand of Lewis that the new contract give him either a closed shop or the right to strike at will through abolition of the strike penalty clause was just as adamantly being refused by the operators.

Others Ready To Join

Meanwhile, as the 320,000 miners in the Appalachian area continued into their second month of enforced idleness, another 100,000 miners in 14 middle western states outside that region were preparing to join them. Lewis has abrogated their contracts as of midnight May 4 and on that deadline they must lay down their tools.

Negotiations for a new pact covering 100,000 hard coal miners in Pennsylvania continue, but there was no assurance from Lewis that they will not join the ranks of the idle when their temporary one-week extension of the present contract expires midnight Saturday.

Orders for foreign coal chiefly from Wales continued to spurt as the available supply decreased in this country. The cessation of mining was having a blighting effect on industrial activity throughout the East.

Today marked the beginning of the eighth week of the current negotiations for a new contract to replace the one which expired March 31. After several weeks of argument, Lewis abandoned his (Continued on Page Two)

Third Strike on Cleveland Crime!

Safety Director Ness Follows Smashing of Police Graft and Labor Racketeering With Winning War on Numbers Game

Cleveland police examining policy slips seized in raids

CLEVELAND, May 2.—Elliott Ness, Cleveland's youthful safety director, has made the headlines again—this time with a smashing attack on the city's policy game racketeers, reputed to have a $5,000,000 "take" annually.

Working once again in collaboration with Frank T. Cullitan, the county prosecutor, Ness was instrumental in bringing the indictment of 23 men allegedly involved in the lucrative "numbers" racket, on charges of extortion and attempted extortion.

Ness and Cullitan worked closely together on two other major drives—against grafting policemen and blackmailing labor leaders.

The two previous drives were singularly successful. Six police officers were sent to the penitentiary and three labor union officials went to prison for blackmail.

Raids Carefully Planned

The dramatic raids against the policy racketeers were long in preparation. As usual, Ness and Cullitan found that those who possessed information were reluctant to talk. The two officials set up headquarters in a downtown hotel room, and the witnesses, one by one, were brought in. After considerable persuasion, and with promises of complete protection, the witnesses began to tell what they knew.

Included in the list of 23 alleged policy racketeers indicted by the grand jury after a full year spent by Ness and Cullitan in collecting evidence and testimony, were the remnants of several of the most notorious gangs of Cleveland's bloody prohibition era.

When the bootleg traffic, after repeal, suddenly faded out as a rich source of revenue, the gangs turned to the policy game and took it over. From a penny-ante affair played only in the city's poorer districts, the numbers game became a major operation, paying its operators big dividends.

Most familiar version of the game is for the better to guess three numbers he believes will be the last three numbers of the clearing house balance released the following day by Cleveland banks. If he guessed correctly, the better is paid off to the tune of 600 to one, but the odds against him are more than 999 to one.

Ness Still Hero

Ness, now 36 years old, enjoys undiminished popularity in Cleveland. He captivated the attention of the city when three and a half years ago he was appointed safety director. A former federal agent, he was widely known for his two-fisted attacks against illicit liquor traffickers.

Young looking, personable and soft spoken, his appearance belies his relentless methods of fighting crime.

Much has been made of the fact that politics apparently is "out," so far as Ness is concerned, because he is an appointee of a Republican mayor, Harold H. Burton, and has worked in such close harmony (Continued on Page Two)

Smiths, 471,190 Of Them, Lead Nation's Families

WASHINGTON, May 2—The Smiths, 471,190 of them, headed a list of the "first fifty families" in the United States—not the wealthiest, but those having their names more frequently used—issued today by the Social Security board from its 43,900,000 account numbers.

The Johnsons were in second with 350,530 followed by the Browns, 254,750, the Williamses, 250,312 and the Millers with 240,180. The Jones family was next with 235,540.

The first 50 names were found principally in Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. The Burkes, Cohens and Elliots came principally from the state of New York. The Adams, Bailey, Jenkins and Nelson families were the most numerous in Ohio, Kentucky and Michigan, while Pennsylvanians, Delaware and New Jersey have a majority of one of the family groups—the Moores.

HITLER PONDER'S NEXT MOVE FOR CITY OF DANZIG

Fuehrer Leaves For Quiet Mountain Home; Hungary Taken Under Wing

GOEBBELS' PAPER IRATE

Warsaw Improves Defenses; British Urge Nation To Remain Firm

BERLIN, May 2—The Nazi press began to whip up public indignation against Poland on the Danzig and Polish Corridor questions today as Hungary was brought squarely within the German orbit and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler retired to Berchtesgaden to ponder his next move in the European diplomatic struggle.

The onslaught was led by Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper. This publication turned its heaviest fire on articles in Warsaw government papers intimating that Poland will demand an even wider outlet to the Baltic than now afforded.

Der Angriff characterized as "amazing and dangerous impudence" suggestions that German Upper Silesia should be incorporated into the Corridor to widen the sea outlet at Germany's expense.

The influential Boersen Zeitung took much the same line, declaring:

"Poland's appetite seems to have been whetted by the blank check handed it by Great Britain."

"Warmongers" Blamed

The press in general blamed "western warmongers" for inciting Poland to an attitude of defiance against Germany's allegedly "just claims" in Danzig and the Corridor.

A semi-official announcement said conversations between Hungary and the Reich resulted in a "complete accord on matters affecting mutual relationships of the two governments."

In addition, the announcement said, the agreement covered central and southeastern European problems as well as Hungary's relations with her neighbors.

Earlier, official Nazi sources denied that the Reich had established a political and military protectorate over Hungary. But from today's announcement it appeared the Reich had lined up Hungary solidly with the nations opposed to the so-called Anglo-French "encirclement" bloc.

Chancellor Hitler sped toward his Berchtesgaden mountain retreat to plan his next moves in Europe's diplomatic struggle following his two May Day speeches in which he warned that Germany (Continued on Page Two)

DANGEROUS FIRE IN UPTOWN AREA IS EXTINGUISHED

Prompt work by Circleville firemen prevented a serious fire Tuesday noon in a shed at the rear of Stone's Grill, S. Court street.

Firemen worked for about 45 minutes to put out the fire, believed started from burning trash near the building. The old shed was used for a storage space for rubbish, firemen said. They laid 600 feet of hose from Court street to extinguish the fire.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise estimated damage at $50. The shed is located in a section that has been a worry to firemen for some time. Practically all buildings in the immediate vicinity of the shed are connected and are of wood construction.

THEFT CHARGED TO TWO

Everitt Estep, 19, of Circleville, and Garfield Stewart, 18, of near Pleasantville, are being held in Lancaster on charges of auto theft. They are accused of taking the auto of James Stewart, stepfather of Garfield Stewart, on Tuesday, April 25. The car was recovered in Chillicothe. The youths were arrested in Chillicothe on Sunday.

Rt. 22 Job To Be Ended Ere October's Festival

Barring unusual weather, the Lewis & Frisinger Co., of Ann Arbor, Mich., contractors on the Route 22 improvement just west of Circleville, hope to have the work completed from two to four weeks before the annual Pumpkin Show in October.

This announcement was made Tuesday noon at the Chamber of Commerce by John Frisinger, official of the company. He stated that the project is 31 percent complete at present and work is 20 percent ahead of schedule. To date the firm has spent about $28,000 for labor. Seventy-five percent of the men on the improvement are from Pickaway county. At present there are 62 employed. He estimated that this number would be doubled by the end of May.

The Chamber of Commerce will appeal to city officials to renew the police check on Court street speeders. A check was made some time ago and then the campaign was slackened.

Housing problems of the city were discussed, but no definite recommendations made.

Frank Lynch was appointed to head a drive to finance several playgrounds in the city this Summer.

R. L. Brehmer, chairman of the committee studying the city manager form of government, said arrangements are being worked out to have the issue placed before voters at the primary election.

Schneider last was seen early yesterday. He was under subpoena to appear before the federal grand jury again after he testified for four days last week. He was considered a key man in the government's attempt to convict Pendergast for allegedly failing to report $443,550 of income for 1935 and 1936.

The government men did not dispute the theory Schneider had killed himself, but Maurice M. Milligan, U. S. attorney who obtained the tax evasion indictments against Pendergast, said he had asked for a full investigation to ascertain whether Schneider's indicated suicide was "a hoax, a suicide or if he met with foul play."

WILKIN, OHIO LAWYER, MAY WIN FEDERAL JUDGESHIP

WASHINGTON, May 2—Robert N. Wilkin, a New Philadelphia, O., lawyer and a former Ohio Supreme Court judge, is being considered for appointment as federal district judge in Cleveland, Senator Donahay's office reported today. Federal district judges receive $10,000 annually.

"No one has been decided on as yet, the names are now being considered by the Department of Justice," the senator's assistant said. The new judge will be nominated by President Roosevelt on Donahay's endorsement, members of the house Democratic delegation stated.

U. S. PREPARES TO INTERVENE IN COAL STRIKE

Miners, Operators Must Put Approval On Agreement Or Face Federal Move

BOTH SIDES ADAMANT

Foreign Fuel May Be Sent From Wales To Supply
Needy Industries

NEW YORK, May 2—Federal intervention within the next 24 hours in the soft coal deadlock was expected today unless either the miners or the operators broach some plan for settlement of the critical controversy over a new wages and hours contract.

Despite the threat of Dr. John R. Steelman, the special federal mediator, that the government would submit a settlement plan of its own if the deadlock was not broken by Wednesday, both sides remained unyielding.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, was scheduled to meet with his full policy committee of 150 miners from the soft coal fields of the Appalachian area to discuss the next step.

The adamant demand of Lewis that the new contract give him either a closed shop or the right to strike at will through abolition of the strike penalty clause was just as adamantly being refused by the operators.

Others Ready To Join

Meanwhile, as the 320,000 miners in the Appalachian area continued into their second month of enforced idleness, another 100,000 miners in 14 middle western states outside that region were preparing to join them. Lewis has abrogated their contracts as of midnight May 4 and on that deadline they must lay down their tools.

Negotiations for a new pact covering 100,000 hard coal miners in Pennsylvania continue, but there was no assurance from Lewis that they will not join the ranks of the idle when their temporary one-week extension of the present contract expires midnight Saturday.

Orders for foreign coal chiefly from Wales continued to spurt as the available supply decreased in this country. The cessation of mining was having a blighting effect on industrial activity throughout the East.

Today marked the beginning of the eighth week of the current negotiations for a new contract to replace the one which expired March 31. After several weeks of argument, Lewis abandoned his (Continued on Page Two)

Third Strike on Cleveland Crime!

Safety Director Ness Follows Smashing of Police Graft and Labor Racketeering With Winning War on Numbers Game

Cleveland police examining policy slips seized in raids

CLEVELAND, May 2—Elliott Ness, Cleveland's youthful safety director, has made the headlines again—this time with a smashing attack on the city's policy game racketeers, reputed to have a $5,000,000 "take" annually.

Working once again in collaboration with Frank T. Cullitan, the county prosecutor, Ness was instrumental in bringing the indictment of 23 men allegedly involved in the lucrative "numbers" racket, on charges of extortion and attempted extortion.

Ness and Cullitan worked closely together on two other major drives—against grafting policemen and blackmailing labor leaders.

The two previous drives were singularly successful. Six police officers were sent to the penitentiary and three labor union officials went to prison for blackmail.

Raids Carefully Planned

The dramatic raids against the policy racketeers were long in preparation. As usual, Ness and Cullitan found that those who possessed information were reluctant to talk. The two officials set up headquarters in a downtown hotel room, and the witnesses, one by one, were brought in. After considerable persuasion, and with promises of complete protection, the witnesses began to tell what they knew.

Included in the list of 23 alleged policy racketeers indicted by the grand jury after a full year spent by Ness and Cullitan in collecting evidence and testimony, were the remnants of several of the most notorious gangs of Cleveland's bloody prohibition era.

When the bootleg traffic, after repeal, suddenly faded out as a rich source of revenue, the gangs turned to the policy game and took it over. From a penny-ante affair played only in the city's poorer districts, the numbers game became a major operation, paying its operators big dividends.

Most familiar version of the game is for the better to guess three numbers he believes will be the last three numbers of the clearing house balance released the following day by Cleveland banks. If he guessed correctly, the better is paid off to the tune of 600 to one, but the odds against him are more than 999 to one.

HOUSE, SENATE TERMED STAMPS FOR BRICKER IN UNSIGNED CARTOONS

COLUMBUS, May 2—Members of the house and senate reflected today on cartoons mailed to them in envelopes bearing Cincinnati postmarks which alluded to them as rubber stamps.

Bearing no identification marks, the cartoons depicted the hands of Governor Bricker with two rubber stamps, one of a senator and one of a representative, and the imprint of the "stamps" on a sheet of paper headed "ripper legislation."

Much has been made of the fact that politics apparently is "out," so far as Ness is concerned, because he is an appointee of a Republican mayor, Harold H. Burton, and has worked in such close harmony with the city's police.

Rt. 22 Job To Be Ended Ere October's Festival

Barring unusual weather, the Lewis & Frisinger Co., of Ann Arbor, Mich., contractors on the Route 22 improvement just west of Circleville, hope to have the work completed from two to four weeks before the annual Pumpkin Show in October.

This announcement was made Tuesday noon at the Chamber of Commerce by John Frisinger, official of the company. He stated that the project is 31 percent complete at present and work is 20 percent ahead of schedule. To date the firm has spent about $28,000 for labor. Seventy-five percent of the men on the improvement are from Pickaway county. At present there are 62 employed. He estimated that

GOEBBELS' PAPER IRATE

Warsaw Improves Defenses; British Urge Nation To Remain Firm

BERLIN, May 2—The Nazi press began to whip up public indignation against Poland on the Danzig and Polish Corridor questions today as Hungary was brought squarely within the German orbit and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler retired to Berchtesgaden to ponder his next move in the European diplomatic struggle.

The onslaught was led by Der Angriff, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' newspaper. This publication turned its heaviest fire on articles in Warsaw government papers intimating that Poland will demand an even wider outlet to the Baltic than now afforded.

Der Angriff characterized as "amazing and dangerous impudence" suggestions that German Upper Silesia should be incorporated into the Corridor to widen the sea outlet at Germany's expense.

The influential Boersen Zeitung took much the same line, declaring:

"Poland's appetite seems to have been whetted by the blank check handed it by Great Britain."

"Warmongers" Blamed

The press in general blamed "western warmongers" for inciting Poland to an attitude of defiance against Germany's allegedly "just claims" in Danzig and the Corridor.

A semi-official announcement said conversations between Hungary and the Reich resulted in a "complete accord on matters affecting mutual relationships of the two governments."

In addition, the announcement said, the agreement covered central and southeastern European problems as well as Hungary's relations with her neighbors.

Earlier, official Nazi sources denied that the Reich had established a political and military protectorate over Hungary. But from today's announcement it appeared the Reich had lined up Hungary solidly with the nations opposed to the so-called Anglo-French "encirclement" bloc.

DANGEROUS FIRE IN UPTOWN AREA IS EXTINGUISHED

Prompt work by Circleville firemen prevented a serious fire Tuesday noon in a shed at the rear of Stone's Grill, S. Court street.

Firemen worked for about 45 minutes to put out the fire, believed started from burning trash near the building. The old shed was used for a storage space for rubbish, firemen said. They laid 600 feet of hose from Court street to extinguish the fire.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise estimated damage at $50. The shed is located in a section that has been a worry to firemen for some time. Practically all buildings in the immediate vicinity of the shed are connected and are of wood construction.

THEFT CHARGED TO TWO

They are accused of taking the auto of James Stewart, stepfather of Garfield Stewart, on Tuesday, April 25. The car was recovered in Chillicothe. The youths were arrested in Chillicothe on Sunday.

Of all the countless characters he has portrayed on the screen, Warner Baxter's favorite is the Cisco Kid, and when he heard that he was to bring O. Henry's lovable outlaw back to the screen, it was a dream come true.

"The Cisco Kid is by far my favorite other self," said Baxter on the set of "The Return of the Cisco Kid," the 20th Century-Fox production opening Wednesday at the Grand Theatre. "The part is a natural and Cisco is the most interesting of any character I've ever portrayed."

Baxter's original portrayal of the Cisco Kid in "In Old Arizona" won him the Academy Award.

mony with a Democratic prosecutor.

As a matter of fact, Ness has steered clear of politics and has made political speeches for only two men—Burton and Charles McNamee, a Democrat and former assistant of Cullinan.

Ness himself considers the current drive against the policy game operators as a highly-important crusade against crime. He terms it "the first real attack on organized gangs."

Modernized Police Force

While the three major drives have attracted much public attention, Ness has been busy with many other steps designed to bring the efficiency of the police department to its highest possible degree. Ness has revised the entire precinct setup, completely modernized the police car and radio apparatus, and effected great strides in traffic safety.

Traffic deaths in 1938 were reduced 46 percent under 1937, and this year are running 16 percent under 1938, as a result of an intensive educational campaign.

A scientific police school has been established for the rookies. Strenuous efforts are being made by police under Ness to reduce crime among youth by setting up community centers for boys and guiding their idle time.

The Ness anti-crime drives have captured public fancy, but he has not neglected the fire department, also under his jurisdiction. An intensive program of modernizing the fire department and providing the most efficient new equipment is now under way.

bergh viewed the plight of this country in aviation research — which translates into military air power — was emphasized by this statement, made to a member of the dinner party:

"I (he was quoted as saying) have no plans for returning to Europe. I am having uniforms made (Lindbergh has been called to active duty with the Army Air Corps) and will be available for any service to which I may be called."

He reiterated the promise, made privately to N.A.A.C.A. last week, to appear before any congressional committees that want to hear him on the desirability of the $400,000,000 Sunnyvale, Calif., research laboratory, turned down by congress.

Senator McCarran asserted that he would reintroduce the Sunnyvale project in the third deficiency bill.

Laboratories Needed

"We need (Lindbergh was quoted as saying) not only the Sunnyvale laboratory, but at least two or three more of the same magnitude.

"Five years ago this country led the world in aviation research. Today, if we don't get going, we can't catch up in five years. Germany leads, Britain is second, Italy and France on a par among the European nations. Russia is far behind."

In the "wonder wing" American engineers have realized the 20 year dream of all aeronautical scientists — making the air flow smoothly over a major portion of the wing surface, thus reducing the "drag" created by heretofore unquarable turbulent air which formed almost as quickly as it struck the wing's leading edge.

Secrets of the wing's construction were jealously guarded but the inspection party watched the product work next to an old style wing in the free-flight wind tunnel. "Drag" was reduced about two thirds, and while N.A.A.C.A. members refused to reveal the new high speed they said would be made possible by this discovery, it was learned that speed of present day 400 mile an hour pursuit ships shortly may be increased 100 miles an hour.

New Tunnels Dedicated

During the day two new wind tunnels, the only ones of their kind in the world, were dedicated. Both were designed to "leave nothing to chance" during construction of advanced airplane types. In one, where stability, controllability and performance of large aircraft were tested, high-density—two atmospheres—was used, necessitating "the compression" of the scientists working in the tunnel, just as "sandhogs" who build river tunnels must be treated before and after each day's labor to escape the death-dealing "bends."

Ready Mixed Concrete company, which holds a virtual monopoly on city construction jobs. The government claims that dividends paid to Schneider as a stockholder of the company actually went to Pendergast.

It was believed that in his last appearance before the grand jury, Friday, Schneider changed from an "I know nothing" line of testimony to a free exposition of his business and political operations. The next day the government obtained a second indictment against Pendergast.

The suicide notes were dated April 27. One was addressed to Schneider's wife and said "this ordeal of the past month has been too much." Another to a business friend stated "I can't see any way out of it. I think this will be the easier way."

Pendergast, meanwhile, appeared in federal court for arraignment and with R. E. O'Malley, former state insurance superintendent who was indicted with him, pleaded not guilty to the tax indictment.

All Schneider's close friends, as well as his wife, expressed belief he was dead, pointing to the fact his hat was found floating in the river three miles downstream from the bridge where he had abandoned his car. Hours of dragging the river had failed to reveal a trace of a body, however.

200,000 TO BE SLASHED FROM W. P. A. ROSTER

WASHINGTON, May 2—Approximately 200,000 workers will be slashed from W.P.A. rolls this week, W.P.A. Administrator F. C. Harrington announced today as he moved to reduce the entire relief roll to 2,600,000 for May.

Approximately 2,800,000 were on W.P.A. rolls in April. Col. Harrington said the reductions would be completed by May 8. They comprised, he said, a continuance of a general curtailment of the relief program for the period of April 1 to July 1.

The curtailment, Col. Harrington explained, followed the recent action of congress in appropriating only $100,000,000 for emergency relief, when President Roosevelt had requested $150,000,000.

W.P.A. officials explained that actual cuts in employment from the current level will amount to slightly less than 200,000 because total employment has been reduced below the 2,800,000 authorized level for April.

might have to fight for its existence.

In Berlin, intense diplomatic activity continued, centering chiefly around German-Polish tension over Hitler's demand for restoration of Danzig to the Reich and for a right of way across the Polish Corridor.

Polish Ambassador Josef Lipski returned to Warsaw from Berlin and German Ambassador Hans Von Moltke also went back to the Polish capital to keep in close touch with developments.

While German diplomatic pressure on Poland for satisfaction of Hitler's demands increased, official Nazi sources denied Paris reports that the Reich has established a political and military protectorate over Hungary.

WARSAW, May 2—Determined to resist German demands for restoration of Danzig to the Reich and for a broad right-of-way across the Polish corridor, Premier Gen. Felicjan Slawoj-Skladowski's cabinet moved swiftly today to buttress Poland's defenses.

Powers To President

The cabinet at a special meeting decided to propose that parliament confer on President Ignacy Moscicki extraordinary powers governing national defense preparations, economic matters and financial regulations.

Under the proposal, the president would be empowered to issue decrees in the fields of defense, economics and finance, excepting on questions affecting the parity of Polish currency.

The president's powers would remain effective until the convention of the Sejm (parliament) next autumn, by which time Warsaw authorities hope the present Polish-German dispute will have been settled.

Suggestions for a Polish protectorate over the free city of Danzig left little doubt in the minds of observers that the government is planning strong resistance to Chancellor Hitler's demands for Danzig and a German route across the Corridor.

LONDON, May 2—The British government brought pressure on Poland today to stand firm in defiance of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's demands for restoration of Danzig to the Reich and for a German highway across the Polish Corridor linking Pomerania with East Prussia.

Authoritative British and Polish quarters said Great Britain was urging the Warsaw government to maintain the "stiffest possible attitude," particularly regarding Hitler's demands in the Corridor.

LAST STEP NEAR IN APPROVAL OF RELIEF BUDGET

Joint Committee Meets To Put Finishing Touches On Big Measure

MYRNA'S OUSTER AT HAND

Governor Ready To Put His Name On Parole Board Ripper Measure

COLUMBUS, May 2 — A poor relief program calling for the expenditure of $10,000,000 a year neared the final stage of enactment as a joint legislative committee scheduled an executive session for today to apply the finishing touches.

Bearing the approval of Governor Bricker, the financial section of the program reached the whole committee in the form of a sub-committee report.

The report proposed that subdivisions be allowed to vote relief levies of not to exceed two and one-half mills on a majority vote for 1939 and a 55 percent vote in 1940.

Such levies, together with a bill increasing the share of motor vehicle license taxes to cities by 25 percent of the total revenue were designed to give subdivisions sufficient matching money.

To Free Local Funds

In addition there have been laws enacted which will free local funds by placing the intangible and inheritance taxes in general funds of municipalities and raise the borrowing rate from beer and malt tax revenues from 80 to 90 percent.

On the basis of proposed enabling legislation it was estimated the following amounts would be raised each year:

Motor vehicle license tax increase—$4,000,000.

Division of intangible and inheritance taxes—$3,000,000 maximum.

Increase in the borrowing percentage on beer, malt and wine tax—$750,000 maximum.

The balance from voted levies.

The sub-committee report also recommended that $786,500 be appropriated from the general revenue fund to pay outstanding 1938 relief notes and a strict dollar-for-dollar matching policy.

Ripper To Be Signed

Meanwhile, word came from the governor's office that Bricker would sign the bill abolishing the four-member parole board and establishing a new three-member pardon and parole commission at 2 p. m. today.

There was a possibility that the governor also would announce his selections to the new commission at the same time he signs the bill.

If such is the case it would mean the immediate termination of the $6,000 a year jobs of Mrs. Myrna Smith, Kent; Bishop Reverdy D. Ransom, Wilberforce; Frank Sotak, Cleveland, and Judge Harrison W. Jewell, Delaware.

Jewell appeared to have the only chance of being re-appointed. He carried the endorsement of probate and common pleas judges in several sections of the state.

A conference committee which has been going over the bill reorganizing the tax commission and abolishing the jobs of the present commissioners was expected to report to the senate today.

Amendments Disclosed

The senate refused to concur in house amendment to the measure which necessitated its being sent to the conference group.

In an abbreviated session the senate passed three bills, defeated one and received three, while the house approved four measures.

A bill of Sen. Robert A. Pollock (R-Canton) which would have shifted the burden of paying overage on student transportation costs from the state to school districts was snowed under, 32 to 6 with Sens. Ward and Baumhart leading the attack.

It was estimated that the excess transportation costs amount to $1,250,000 during a year. Each student is allowed about $64 a year for transportation, but the actual cost runs far ahead of that amount.

Senate's Program

Bills which the senate passed would:

Reduce the percentage of cost borne by railroads in grade crossing elimination projects outside municipalities from 50 to 15 percent and increase the state cost from 50 to 85 percent.

Reduce from 65 to 15 percent the railroads' cost of eliminating grade crossings in municipalities and increase the municipalities share from 35 to 85 percent.

Provide for the teaching of natural resources and wildlife in public schools.

House bills passed would:

Extend the resident fishing season on Lake Erie from Sept. 1 to Dec. 20 instead of Nov. 20 and the non-resident season from March 15 to Dec. 20 instead of Nov. 20. Prevent placing of fishnets

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

A PRIMER OF ECONOMICS

The University of Notre Dame has just published the first volume of a proposed series on economics. It is a new thing in the world. It is as frank as a street-car ad. It is written to be understood! It uses one-syllable words, large page, clear type. In fact, as President John F. O'Hara says in his foreword, it is "A Primer of Economics: An Essay in Adult Education".

Millions of people are forming judgments on capital, labor, money, wealth, wages, tariffs, international policies, etc., as they ride street-cars and automobiles. This book is meant for them. These busy millions, without time or training to plow through heavy tomes, nevertheless register controlling judgments that affect the whole social and industrial order.

On the truth of their information, on the clarity of their thinking, and the fairness of their judging, civilization itself depends. And so we find a group of university men who are trying to find and state the facts of economics as simply as "37 varieties", or "It floats".

If pickle and soap producers are not ashamed to bring their mountain to Mahomet, why should research workers in economics not try to bring their Mahomet to the masses?

What are the facts? In designing a bridge, or pulling a tooth, what are the facts? We want to know. And we have no patience with the engineer or dentist who does not know. If he needs an X-ray to find out, give it to him. We simply do not want the wrong tooth pulled, especially if it is our tooth!

But in economics, and its related subjects, including politics, we form judgments that are not accurate from statements that are not facts. We make colossal mistakes like the 'war to make the world safe for democracy', or the Hoover Farm Board, or the cotton plow-up of more recent years. Words cease to be the names of facts. They become the symbols of old loyalties or old prejudices by which clever men get honest men to beat drums or march in parade.

Take, for example, the statement that two percent of the people own 98 percent of the wealth. Is that a fact, or is it a lie? Obviously it is one or the other. Do we try to find out? And if not, why not? One of the reasons is that research workers in economics appear to have been too snooty to do what the University of Notre Dame is now doing. They use a pompous lingo and stuffy words to flatter their vanity. If they use words of one syllable to tell their facts, as Jesus and Abraham Lincoln did, it is not 'scientific'. So, they use

COLUMBUS, May 2—Rep. Gus Kasch (D-Summit) had a resolution back on his desk today which proposed a constitutional amendment barring attorneys from becoming members of the Ohio General Assembly.

Thirty-six of the 136 members of the house are attorneys which probably accounted for the prompt rejection of the resolution a moment after the clerk read the title. The vote to return the proposal to Kasch was 71 to 8.

Long Has Idea

Extension of the territorial limit far into the ocean—300 miles—was suggested by Breckinridge Long, former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Italy, in current neutrality hearings, but Pittman revealed he had been giving serious consideration to the problem for some time. He said the three-mile-limit had its origin in the early artillery, the range of which was about three miles. Now, he explained, this nation's coast defenses could maintain a 12-mile-limit just as easily, and avoid, he said, international incidents and annoyances.

The senate committee will conclude its public hearings on neutrality this week and next week the committee will start drafting a bill.

Three of the biggest legal names in the Democratic Party, ex-Attorney General Homer Cummings, ex-Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and ex-Montana National Committeeman Bruce Kremer, have been approached by publisher Moses Anneberg to defend him in the Justice Department investigation of deficiencies in his income tax payments and violation of the monopoly law . . . Most of the 46 stations carrying the radio priest's speeches are located in the Northeast and he is anxious to expand his coverage to the South and West, particularly the former.

One of the last things which Senator J. "Ham" Lewis of Illinois did before leaving for the trip on which he died, was to write a cheering letter to a man with whom he had differed on more than one occasion.

It was addressed to brain trust Tommy Corcoran, who had been convalescing from a long illness, and read as follows:

"Dear Mr. Corcoran: I regret to hear of your misfortune and sincerely hope that in a very short time you will be quite yourself and able to return to your splendid service, which, regardless of what kind of objections follow, has never been touched with intimation of dishonor or reflection or question of ability."

WPA PROBE

The House WPA investigating committee is saying nothing about it, but it has had to call in some of its New York agents and caution them about staying within the law in digging up evidence.

The crackdown followed a barrage from irate Congressmen who threatened to investigate the investigation unless different methods were used. Among the complaints were charges of intimidating witnesses, changing affidavits and inquiring into the political and labor affiliations of WPA members—one of the very practices which brought about the investigation.

Chief of the New York agents is Ralph Burton, who has his headquarters in a four-room suite in a high-priced skyscraper hotel. This

BETTER DEFENSE SOUGHT

Long, Envoy To Italy, Would Put Mark Far Into Ocean

WASHINGTON, May 2—A defense and neutrality proposal to extend America's territorial waters from the traditional three-mile-limit to a line 12 miles at sea has been submitted to the state department for approval by Chairman Key Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee.

"The three-mile-limit," said Pittman, "is dangerous. If there is a foreign conflict, we don't want any fighting between foreign ships that close to our shores. It could too easily result in 'incidents' and it would be intensely annoying. The three-mile-limit permits foreign craft to virtually bottle up our big seaports."

Pittman, busy steering a course for neutrality legislation, does not believe legislation would be necessary to establish the 12-mile-limit since recognition of the current worldwide three-mile-limit is a matter of custom. If it were decided to take the step, however, Pittman thinks it should be reinforced by a resolution in congress reinforcing the executive action.

Founded on any other ground, as this Primer says, "the institutions so dear to the heart of every American will inevitably be undermined and fall".

control to cosmetics, and the famous beauty expert doesn't like it. The clash is over the use of coal tar colors in cosmetics. Wallace is not an expert on mascara, eye shadow, or tissue builders, but the Food and Drug Administration is under his jurisdiction, so he is holding aloft the banner of regulation.

Last session, Congress gave the agency new powers to control the sale of cosmetics. Most dangerous ingredients, according to its experts, are the coal tar colors. After a series of public hearings Wallace announced, "There will be no certification of any coal tar color for use in any article which is applied to the area of the eye."

This strikes hard at all producers of "eye shadow", including the Elizabeth Arden Sales Corporation, which had applied for permission to use coal tar colors in eye shadows.

Miss Arden's company still has time to protest Wallace's production control, but FDA is cracking down vigorously on other cosmetic producers. It has driven one widely advertised eyelash beautifier out of business and is raising a hob with others.

Meantime, its laboratories are lurid with cosmetic-stricken guinea pigs and white mice. Every new coal tar coloring that comes into the scene is tested on the rodents. The white mice show clearly what cosmetics they are wearing for the day. Their fur remains white, but their ears and tail take on the pink, purple or orange of the latest beautifier.

LIMA, May 2 — A writ of habeas corpus seeking the release from Lima State hospital of John M. Peters, who allegedly attempted to blow up the Jackson county courthouse in 1933, was on file today in the third district Court of Appeals. The writ asserted that Peters' sanity had been restored.

According to Dr. E. H. Crawford, assistant superintendent of the institution, Peters was committed without trial in 1933 after he had walked into the courthouse with a suitcase filled with explosives. Only a defective fuse kept the charge from going off. Peters was said to have had a grudge against county commissioners.

Hospital authorities still are convinced Peters is insane, Dr. Crawford said.

12-MILE LIMIT SUGGESTED TO GUARD SHORES

Key Pittman May Lead Move To Change Government's Present Zone

BETTER DEFENSE SOUGHT

Long, Envoy To Italy, Would Put Mark Far Into Ocean

WASHINGTON, May 2—A defense and neutrality proposal to extend America's territorial waters from the traditional three-mile-limit to a line 12 miles at sea has been submitted to the state department for approval by Chairman Key Pittman of the senate foreign relations committee.

"The three-mile-limit," said Pittman, "is dangerous. If there is a foreign conflict, we don't want any fighting between foreign ships that close to our shores. It could too easily result in 'incidents' and it would be intensely annoying. The three-mile-limit permits foreign craft to virtually bottle up our big seaports."

Pittman, busy steering a course for neutrality legislation, does not believe legislation would be necessary to establish the 12-mile-limit since recognition of the current worldwide three-mile-limit is a matter of custom. If it were decided to take the step, however, Pittman thinks it should be reinforced by a resolution in congress reinforcing the executive action.

Long Has Idea

Extension of the territorial limit far into the ocean—300 miles—was suggested by Breckinridge Long, former assistant secretary of state and ambassador to Italy, in current neutrality hearings, but Pittman revealed he had been giving serious consideration to the problem for some time. He said the three-mile-limit had its origin in the early artillery, the range of which was about three miles. Now, he explained, this nation's coast defenses could maintain a 12-mile-limit just as easily, and avoid, he said, international incidents and annoyances.

The senate committee will conclude its public hearings on neutrality this week and next week the committee will start drafting a bill.

coming members of the Ohio General Assembly.

Thirty-six of the 136 members of the house are attorneys which probably accounted for the prompt rejection of the resolution a moment after the clerk read the title. The vote to return the proposal to Masch was 71 to 8.

control to cosmetics, and the famous beauty expert doesn't like it. The clash is over the use of coal tar colors in cosmetics. Wallace is not an expert on mascara, eye shadow, or tissue builders, but the Food and Drug Administration is under his jurisdiction, so he is holding aloft the banner of regulation.

Last session, Congress gave the agency new powers to control the sale of cosmetics. Most dangerous ingredients, according to its experts, are the coal tar colors. After a series of public hearings Wallace announced, "There will be no certification of any coal tar color for use in any article which is applied to the area of the eye."

This strikes hard at all producers of "eye shadow", including the Elizabeth Arden Sales Corporation, which had applied for permission to use coal tar colors in eye shadows.

Miss Arden's company still has time to protest Wallace's production control, but FDA is cracking down vigorously on other cosmetic producers. It has driven one widely advertised eyelash beautifier out of business and is raising a hob with others.

Meantime, its laboratories are lurid with cosmetic-stricken guinea pigs and white mice. Every new coal tar coloring that comes into the scene is tested on the rodents. The white mice show clearly what cosmetics they are wearing for the day. Their fur remains white, but their ears and tail take on the pink, purple or orange of the latest beautifier.

DUVALL SCHOOL PLANS OPERETTA AND GRADUATION

The Duvall grade pupils will present the operetta "Tom Sawyer" in the school auditorium on Monday, May 8, at 8:15 p. m.

The three-act operetta is based on Mark Twain's story and was dramatized and adapted by Theodosia Paynter. Music is by G. A. Grant Schaefer.

The school will close Tuesday, May 9, with a basket dinner at the noon hour. The eighth grade commencement will be held at 2 p. m. George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools will be the speaker.

Members of the class are Donald Duvall, Boyd Kuhlwein, Carl McClurg, Harold Peters, Elroy Reid, William Rhinesmith, Wilma Rhinesmith, Wilma Stover, Gladys Swank and Virginia Vause. Music will be furnished by the school.

WPA PROBE

The House WPA investigating committee is saying nothing about it, but it has had to call in some of its New York agents and caution them about staying within the law in digging up evidence.

The crackdown followed a barrage from irate Congressmen who threatened to investigate the investigation unless different methods were used. Among the complaints were charges of intimidating witnesses, changing affidavits and inquiring into the political and labor affiliations of WPA members—one of the very practices which brought about the investigation.

Chief of the New York agents is Ralph Burton, who has his headquarters in a four-room suite in a high-priced skyscraper hotel. This

HABEAS CORPUS WRIT ON FILE FOR PRISONER

LIMA, May 2 — A writ of habeas corpus seeking the release from Lima State hospital of John M. Peters, who allegedly attempted to blow up the Jackson county courthouse in 1933, was on file today in the third district Court of Appeals. The writ asserted that Peters' sanity had been restored.

According to Dr. E. H. Crawford, assistant superintendent of the institution, Peters was committed without trial in 1933 after he had walked into the courthouse with a suitcase filled with explosives. Only a defective fuse kept the charge from going off. Peters was said to have had a grudge against county commissioners.

Hospital authorities still are convinced Peters is insane, Dr. Crawford said.

NAZI "MONROE DOCTRINE"

ONE of the most interesting statements of Fuehrer Hitler, in his Reichstag speech, while paying his compliments to the United States, was his suggestion that the Nazis in their territorial operations are simply applying to Central Europe the Monroe Doctrine that we apply to the western hemisphere. In such a comparison he implies, of course, that Germany is very moderate.

There are some rather obvious facts, however, that Hitler overlooks. With ample power to overrun all Central and South America if we chose to do so, our government lets neighboring republics, large and small, live their own lives, merely making sure that no outside powers bother them. Such Latin-American territory as we have acquired, we have paid for. With the rich island of Cuba in our hands as spoils of war, we withdrew and restored its own sovereignty. We are withdrawing from the rich Philippines, which we captured in war and then paid for, and where we have spent vast sums for the benefit of the natives.

Hitler's policy in his own chosen field of influence is that of the wolf toward Little Red Ridinghood. Other powers must keep away from the small nations of Central Europe in order that Nazi Germany can swallow them.

REARMAMENT CONTINUES

THE FUEHRER'S oratory, as exemplified in his recent speech to the world, is best estimated, perhaps, by its effect on the immediate neighbors of Germany.

We Americans might get a wrong slant on it. Though we feel that the world is threatened, there is no immediate threat to ourselves and our neighbors. The Nazis' European neighbors, living as close to newly militarized and energized Germany as Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey are to New York, and having many close contacts with the Nazis, should be better able to judge the situation.

Well, the effect on the British people is that Britain, with a few laconic remarks, goes right on rearming and strengthening the "sanitary cordon" around Germany and Italy. The French and the Belgians see nothing new in the situation, except, perhaps, an improvement in Hitler's oratorical technique. Switzerland and Holland go ahead strengthening their defenses. Poland expects an attack before long. Russia obviously has no faith whatever in Nazi promises.

This general attitude seems to agree with the New World's viewpoint. Americans in general still have a strong and

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

DEMOCRATS ASK FOR SHOWDOWN

WASHINGTON—Members of Congress who were indorsed by Dr. Townsend are going to be disappointed in their hope of ducking a showdown on the old age pension issue.

Democratic leaders are not advertising the fact, but they have quietly switched their strategy and abandoned their original plan to kill the pension bill in the Ways and Means Committee. Instead, they are going to bring the measure out and force the boys to line up and say "aye" or "nay".

This is going to cause a lot of secret gnashing of teeth; because the last thing most Townsend camp-followers want is to declare themselves openly for or against the legislation.

This is particularly true on the Republican side, where the leaders are fearful of the effect a big GOP vote for Townsendism would have on businessmen. The Republican helmsmen were confidently expecting the Democrats to smother the bill in committee in order to save their own side from going on record. But they have another think coming.

Reason for the Democrats' change of mind was a quiet count of noses which revealed only 34 Democrats as compared to 98 Republicans who bear the Townsend brand.

Not all are outright adherents. Some have attached strings of various kinds to their promises of support. But all were endorsed by Townsend and accepted his backing in the 1938 election, so are sure to run head-on into the oldsters' displeasure if they oppose the pension plan.

With a three-to-one margin in their favor, Democratic leaders decided they could well afford to put the GOP on the spot even if it entails singeing some Democrats.

NOTE—The Townsend high command has secretly decided not to seek a vote on their bill in the overwhelmingly hostile Senate. Instead, one of their friends will offer an amendment to the Social Security bill calling for submission of a constitutional amendment by which a transactions tax could be passed to finance the Townsend type of pensions.

Pages From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a chilly morning, but the sun was ashine and that is something. Noted heavy ice in the bird bath two doings away when the pup went visiting and I found it necessary to do some retrieving. Feared for the fruit trees and early vegetables, but learned little damage had been done. Away to the post, there greeting Les May and Harold Dreisbach. Back to the plant and called for a fire in the furnace. Such weather as this is trying. Too cold without a blaze in the furnace, and any kind of a furnace fire is just too much.

Noted a squirrel dodging traffic in North Court street and scurrying up a big tree in front of the Elks' club. Charlie Gilmore and his lady have been married just 22 years. Charlie told me that, and a story about Mrs. Murphy and Mrs. Flannagan. Mrs. Murphy was passing a Methodist church when she saw Mrs. Flannagan emerging from the building. "What you doing in there?" asked Mrs. Murphy. "I joined the Methodist church," declared Mrs. Flannagan. "And why did you ever do that?" was asked. "I have three sons in the army," said Mrs. Flannagan. "I get $10 a month from each one of them and the Pope is preaching peace."

Met Tim Millar, who is obtaining easements along fishing streams of the district for the state department of conservation. Most farmers, Tim says, are pleased to cooperate with the state in opening the stream banks to fishermen. Many farmers have been forced to post "no trespassing" signs because of an entire lack of property consideration on the part of many anglers. Tim is bringing about the removal of many of the signs. Learned that a request has gone in to the federal government for a shipment of wall-eyes to be placed in Darby creek. Federal officials fear the fish will not live there, but I know they will and if Washington is too skeptical I will arrange for a wall-eye catch to be sent East. A dozen or more local fishermen have caught wall-eyes in Darby. Some of them good ones, too.

There goes Frank Lynch, who is the spearhead of a movement to provide playgrounds for the kids of the ville. Frank will get them, too, if they are at all available. Everyone does not know this, but the Coca Cola baron would rather engage in a marble game with a bunch of boys than play golf at the Country Club. It is a grand thing when a man can cling to part of his boyhood. I wish I could cling to all of it. Then those who wish to be men could all do so with no opposition whatever from me.

In the evening did attend a meeting called for the launching of a Pickaway county casting club. A dozen casters gathered and it was indicated that before the week is out that thirty or more will have been enrolled in the new organization. The pool at the County Farm will be used and a fine pool it is. Some have expressed opinion that it is too small, but I don't think there are more than three casters in the county who can throw a plug across it, and I know none can throw the long way of the pond. Targets will be in the water after Wednesday and a general meeting of the club probably will be called for next week when officers will be chosen.

I wanna t'ank each of youse boys fer acquittin' me. I promise never to do it again.

DIET AND HEALTH

Swallowed His Teeth But Didn't Know It!

How Foreign Articles May Enter Your Body Unknowingly Revealed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS A source of wonderment that anyone can breathe into the lungs or swallow an object, such as a pin or a small piece of metal of any kind, without feeling it. But astonishing as it may appear, foreign bodies of quite incredible size and shape are sucked into the lungs or swallowed, without any knowledge or feeling on the part of the person who does the act.

A 17-year-old youth of my acquaintance went to his doctor because he was unable to remember what had happened to a removable bridge which normally rested in the space formerly occupied by his first upper molar.

His brother was of the opinion that it was lost in a game of "galloping dominoes." He thought that, in the excitement, the bridge had fallen out and had been swept up with the dice when someone was trying to make his point, and in the course of the game had been knocked away and lost.

Pain in Stomach

The real reason he went to the doctor was that he had had a pain in the stomach ever since the crap game. He just happened to mention the loss of the bridge casually.

The doctor settled the question as to whether one can lose at craps and bridge at the same time by having an x-ray taken. There was the bridge all right, swallowed, and resting in the stomach.

It was at least as long as the end of your thumb, with two sharp prongs at either end. How he could have swallowed it without any knowledge that it was passing through his gullet is as mysterious to me as it is to you. But those are the facts of the case.

There is another feature of the case that is quite comforting. Every time I go to the seashore some alarmed parent brings me a child who has swallowed a pebble. I have learned by this time to reassure them and try to calm their fears. In every case the pebble eventually works its way out of the digestive tract and leaves everybody happy.

No Operation Needed

But pebbles are smooth and this bridge was sharp. Several doctors were called in and did not believe that the bridge would pass out of the stomach, let alone go through the intestines. They all thought an operation would be necessary. But by giving a diet with a good deal of fruit and soft material, such as oatmeal, it did pass in four days.

Four days, by the way, is the time I have learned to calculate for the passage of pebbles. It is the classical period.

Inhaling foreign bodies into the lungs can be experienced without choking or, in fact, without any sensation whatever. A physician I know was walking around his office engaged in thought and, very foolishly, as he admits, picking his teeth with a pin. Suddenly he found the pin was gone. He looked all over the carpet for it, but no pin. Then he had an x-ray picture of his chest and there the pin was in the right bronchial tube. He had felt no sensation whatever as it went through the larynx and down the windpipe.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

JESSICA SLID down the banister and landed in her father's arms. She put a finger to her mouth. "Shh!" she cautioned, "Mommie's asleep. We're going to have our supper in the kitchen."

"How was the party?" he asked in a stage whisper.

"It was a pretty good haul, Annie says," the five-year-old informed him.

The living room was littered with bits of tissue paper and pieces of blue and pink satin ribbons. Rouge-tipped cigarettes filled the ash trays beside empty bon-bon dishes.

"Sure it wasn't a hurricane that struck here?" Phil asked his daughter.

"Wait until you see the dining room," she said wisely. "Daddy, Mommie told Annie to leave the table for you to see. It was wonderful. I had three pieces of ice cream."

The dining room table was covered with a white lace cloth and decorated with a centerpiece of flowers from which a papier mache stork rose.

"It must have been some party," he said.

"It was wonderful, daddy. Mommie got so many presents. You could hear them talking a mile away."

Her father smiled.

"Everybody had a good time. Even Mommie."

Phil gave his daughter a startled glance. Her perception often amazed him.

"Did I have a stork shower before I was born, Daddy?"

Phil remembered those days in the apartment on Elane street. He remembered Eleanor's persistent attitude that Jessica's arrival was merely a biological business which called for no undue excitement.

"Sure," he said, knowing that small girls attach much importance to such matters.

"Was I a pretty baby? Were you glad to have me?"

"Beautiful!" he said, believing it to be true. "And your mother said that you were going to grow up and marry the Prince of Wales."

"I don't want to, Daddy. I want to marry a newspaperman."

"God forbid!" he said piously.

"Why are you a newspaperman, Daddy?"

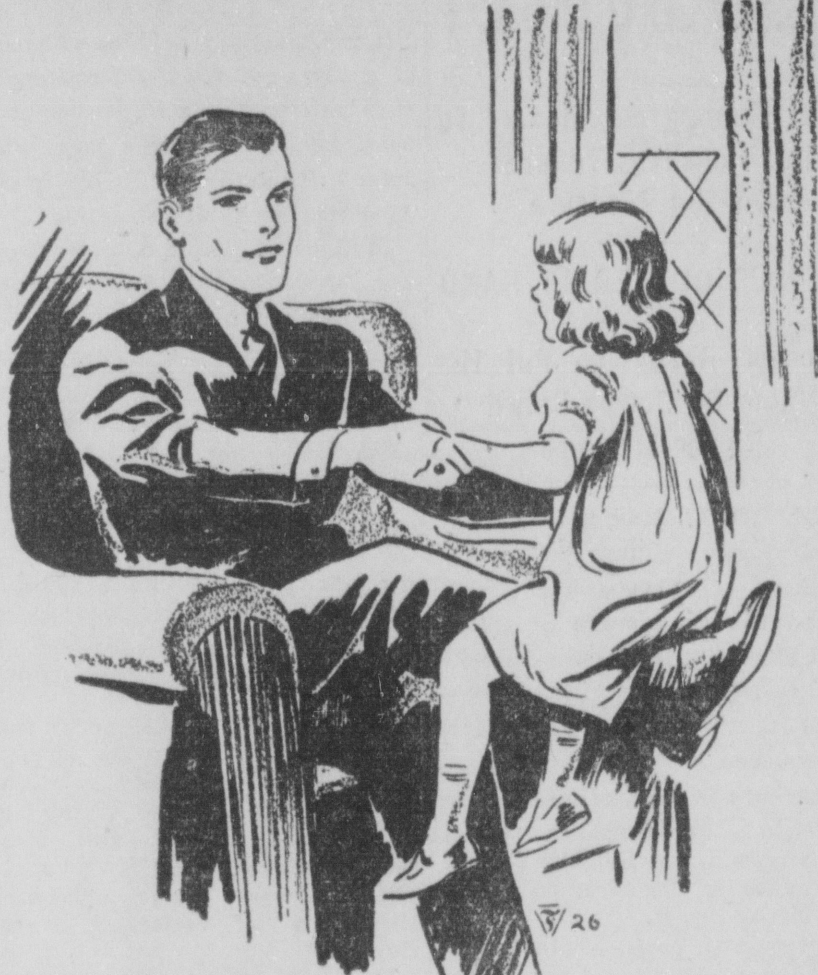

"So that I can take care of my little girl," he answered. Immediately he could not meet her wide eyes. What he had said was not strictly true. It was Eleanor's money that paid for the nurse-maid that took her to the school that Eleanor's money made possible.

He took cheer from the thought that Eleanor was not working now, and that he had another raise. He was getting a hundred a week. Even if Eleanor didn't go back to writing, he could take care of his family on that sum. Perhaps he wouldn't be able to join the golf club in the spring, but it wouldn't matter whether or not he did.

No, Eleanor was not working. The baby was expected next month and she had stopped writing nearly six months before. Eleanor was doing a very thorough job, he thought happily. There had been nothing casual about this. She was glad enough to have a glass of milk brought to her occasionally, and if he tucked a pillow back of her, she smiled at him gratefully.

After Phil and his daughter finished their supper, Nell's voice called to him from above, "Is that you, Phil?"

"Coming right up," he said. She was sitting up in her bed, surrounded with little things of incredible daintiness. "Look!" she commanded.

"Sure it wasn't a hurricane that struck here?" Phil asked his daughter.

She held up a dress that would have fitted one of Jessica's dolls.

"Don't tell me," he teased. "Let me guess. It's a . . . a thingamajob."

"It's a dress, idiot! Mrs. Dewkberry made it herself. Wait until you see the rest. Isn't this a love?" It was something that looked as if it had been made out of the fur of a pale blue kitten.

"That darling old Mrs. Leonard made it. Six pairs of booties, Phil, five dresses, three sweaters and—"

He looked as stern as he could. "I thought you believed in the diaper-and-shirt school of dressing infants."

"Oh, I adore these."

"Was it a good party—outside of the haul?" he asked, winking at his daughter.

"Grand. I made the mushroom patties myself. I was sure the recipe called for too much baking powder, but I followed it and it worked out all right."

Phil's tongue was in his cheek, but his voice was grave enough.

"Did you tweak away some more good recipes to try on your ever-patient husband?"

Eleanor rummaged in a silk purse on her bedside table. "Did I! On your way home tomorrow, stop at Charles' and get me these things. Ruth Arbury gave me a wonderful idea for hot hors d'oeuvres."

Jessica said: "We had hot dogs and sandwiches. I made the hot dogs. Annie let me put them in the water and take them out."

"Did she eat a hot dog?" Eleanor demanded.

"Two," Jessica said, happily.

Eleanor groaned. "Phil, you know I have her on a diet. Joan's Phyllis was as thin as Jessica before she put her on Dr. Simpson's diet. Jessica Farrish, you are to eat cereal and pudding for your supper hereafter."

Phil could not hide a very wide grin.

"What's so funny?"

He schooled the grin into sombre lines. "Something I thought of. I suppose you girls dished a lot of dirt?"

"Of course we didn't. We talked about . . . about . . . Phil, you know that girl we saw at the movies with Dr. and Mrs. Johnson? Well, she's the one who was married to that aviator that is lost, but he isn't. I mean they think that he has just disappeared. Deliberately. She's taken an apartment on Cleveland drive. Mabel went to call one day last week and Mrs. Johnson told her all about it."

That was too much for him. Laughter broke from him in a roar. He couldn't control it. It was infectious. Jessica began to laugh. Eleanor found herself laughing.

"Well," she said when he had subsided. "That was all in the spirit of good clean fun, but what's the joke?"

"You're!" You're just a humbug, Mrs. Parrish. . . . Come on, Jessica, bedtime for you."

Eleanor's face was a study in perplexity when he came back. "Humbug? I don't understand, Phil."

"Nell," he said, "I've never made you eat your words and I'm not going to now. But I'll tell you this: I had to be married to you for six years before I found out that you had me completely fooled for a long time. So you're the girl who isn't like other girls! You're the girl who wouldn't indulge in exchanging recipes, discussing diets or gossiping! That's a wow! Don't you know that you are every one of the things that you think you aren't?"

Was she?

She wondered about that for a long time. She was not. She was a researchist. She was a novelist and whatever pattern she made herself a part of was only a pattern from which she could withdraw herself. Or so she was to think.

She said: "I may use gossip and diets and recipes when I get back to work."

"So you're planning to go back to work?"

"Of course," she said simply.

Saltcreek Class Party Conducted Monday Eve

Junior And Senior Event Attracts
29 Guests

Social Calendar

The Hawaiian motif was used in the decorations for the Saltcreek Junior-Senior banquet Monday at Gold Cliff Chateau. Twenty nine guests were seated for the dinner at the table centered with palms and with tiny palms at each place card. As the guests were seated, each was presented a "lei" which was worn about the neck during the entire evening.

Talisman roses, the class flower of the seniors, were used on the table, and rose and silver, the class colors, were in evidence in the other decorations. The programs of rose and silver had the palm tree motif on the backs. Rose nut cups were used as favors.

Following the dinner served at 6 o'clock, Frederick Garrett, president of the Junior class, acted as toastmaster for the program of talks. Robert Strous, secretary of the Junior class, gave the address of welcome. Miss Mildred Bower, president of the Senior class, responded.

Harold Strous, superintendent of Saltcreek school, and George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, talked briefly.

The group enjoyed a theatre party for the entertainment of the evening.

Miss Charlotte Schaal was chairman of the program committee and was assisted by Miss Jane Bawson and Robert Strous.

The decorating committee included Miss Ruth Mary Crawford, chairman, Fred Canter and Miss Maxine Lutz.

Miss Grace Seymour, Miss Pauline Lutz and Marvin Johnston were members of the general committee on arrangements.

Jackson School Party

Honoring G. R. Ropeter of the school faculty, the seventh and eighth grades of Jackson township school entertained at a wiener and marshmallow roast on the school grounds Monday evening.

Mr. Ropeter will complete his work as a teacher of Jackson school this year and plans to enter a new field of work.

Miss Eugenia Ferguson and Miss Martha E. Reid, teachers of the school, planned the party.

Mrs. Plum Honored

Mrs. W. H. Plum of Ashville was honored at a surprise dinner, Monday, arranged by her daughter, Mrs. Martin Cromley, of Walnut township. The affair marked her birthday anniversary and the guests included intimate friends of Mrs. Plum.

Large bowls of Spring flowers were used in the rooms of the home and on the table set in the dining room where the three course dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock.

Covers were placed for Mrs. Keturah Nothstine, Mrs. John Sark, Mrs. Blanche Morrison, Mrs. J. M. Kaiserman, Mrs. C. H. Decker, Mrs. Iva Smith, Mrs. J. B. Cromley, Miss Anna Sample and Miss Eliza Plum of the Ashville community.

Pickaway Class Play

The play, "Early to Bed, Early to Rise", will be presented by members of the Senior class of Pickaway township high school Friday May 12, at 8:15 p. m. This play was written by William F. Davidson and is a new play, its first performance having been in St. Paul last Spring by the Central Y. M. C. A. Players. In its first season, the play is already making records and is succeeding in an unusual way. It has been produced all over the county and has won most enthusiastic reports and hearty recommendation of the many groups which have given it.

The play is a heart-warming three-act comedy and pictures in a charming way the life of an All-American family, the Fuller family. There is a great variety of characters and each character has his own "moment". The cast includes the impractical father, the kindly keeper of the pet shop, the bristly girl reporters, the fussy aunt, the car-mad brother, the tom-boy sweetheart, the worried rent collectors, pretty Marian, handsome Jim, the girl with the Southern accent, and Patsy, whose heart is

Linger longer linaria

Linger Longer Linaria

There is a tiny, delicate flowering vine in miniature which deserves to have "linger longer"
added to its name of Linaria, since it is so persistent about living and thriving in crevices between steps
or among the rocks of a rock garden. Its common name is Toadflax. The flowers of this trailing plant resemble miniature snapdragons, and are blueish-purple and a brilliant orange in coloring. Linaria stays in bloom from

Spring until checked by the frosts
in Fall.

As shown in the accompanying illustration, the long, thread-like stem of Linaria throws out roots
as well as flowers, and, therefore,
at this time of year it can be easily increased by the simple method of division. Break or cut away pieces of the stem that have roots attached and plant. In most cases the newly plants pieces will take hold immediately and grow
into thriving plants.

Linaria grows well in an ordinary soil, but it has a preference for a sunny location. In the Fall it can be potted for indoor use as a potted plant or in a hanging basket or vase.

Twenty nine guests were seated for the dinner at the table centered with palms and with tiny palms at each place card. As the guests were seated, each was presented a "lei" which was worn about the neck during the entire evening.

Tallman roses, the class flower of the seniors, were used on the table, and rose and silver, the class colors, were in evidence in the other decorations. The programs of rose and silver had the palm tree motif on the backs. Rose nutcrackers were used as favors.

Following the dinner served at 6 o'clock, Frederick Garrett, president of the Junior class, acted as toastmaster for the program of talks. Robert Strous, secretary of the Junior class, gave the address of welcome. Miss Mildred Bower, president of the Senior class, responded.

Harold Strous, superintendent of Saltcreek school, and George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, talked briefly.

The group enjoyed a theatre party for the entertainment of the evening.

Miss Charlotte Schaaf was chairman of the program committee and was assisted by Miss Jane Bawson and Robert Strous. The decorating committee included Miss Ruth Mary Crawford, chairman, Fred Canter and Miss Maxine Lutz.

Miss Grace Seymour, Miss Pauline Lutz and Marvin Johnston were members of the general committee on arrangements.

Miss Eugenia Ferguson and Miss Martha E. Reid, teachers of the school, planned the party.

Mrs. Plum Honored

Mrs. W. H. Plum of Ashville was honored at a surprise dinner, Monday, arranged by her daughter, Mrs. Martin Cromley, of Walnut township. The affair marked her birthday anniversary and the guests included intimate friends of Mrs. Plum.

Large bowls of Spring flowers were used in the rooms of the home and on the table set in the dining room where the three course dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock.

Covers were placed for Mrs. Keturah Nothstine, Mrs. John Sark, Mrs. Blanche Morrison, Mrs. J. M. Kalserman, Mrs. C. H. Decker, Mrs. Iva Smith, Mrs. J. B. Cromley, Miss Anna Sample and Miss Eliza Plum of the Ashville community.

Pickaway Class Play

The play, "Early to Bed, Early to Rise", will be presented by members of the Senior class of Pickaway township high school Friday May 12, at 8:15 p. m. This play was written by William F. Davidson and is a new play, its first performance having been in St. Paul last Spring by the Central Y. M. C. A. Players. In its first season, the play is already making records and is succeeding in an unusual way. It has been produced all over the county and has won most enthusiastic reports and hearty recommendation of the many groups which have given it.

The play is a heart-warming three-act comedy and pictures in a charming way the life of an All-American family, the Fuller family. There is a great variety of characters and each character has his own "moment". The cast includes the impractical father, the kindly keeper of the pet shop, the brisk girl reporters, the fussy aunt, the car-mad brother, the tom-boy sweetheart, the worried net collectors, pretty Marian, handsome Jim, the girl with the Southern accent, and Patsy, whose heart is

Liner longer linaria

Linger Longer Linaria

There is a tiny, delicate flowering vine in miniature which deserves to have "linger longer"
added to its name of Linaria, since
it is so persistent about living and thriving in crevices between steps
or among the rocks of a rock garden. Its common name is Toadflax. The flowers of this
trailing plant resemble miniature snappers, and are blueish-purple and a brilliant orange in coloring. Linaria stays in bloom from

Spring until checked by the frosts
in Fall.

As shown in the accompanying illustration, the long, thread-like
stem of Linaria throws out roots
as well as flowers, and, therefore,
at this time of year it can be easily increased by the simple method of division. Break or cut away pieces of the stem that have roots attached and plant. In most cases the newly plants pieces will take hold immediately and grow
into thriving plants.

Linaria grows well in an ordinary soil, but it has a preference
for a sunny location. In the Fall
it can be potted for indoor use as a potted plant or in a hanging
basket or vase.

SIX STEEDS WIN MAJOR SUPPORT FOR MAY 6 RACE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2—Installed in the fans' big book as the "favorite six," Johnstown, Technician, El Chico, Porter's Mite, Challedon and T. M. Dorsett, all took to the Churchill Downs track today in warming up exercises for the Kentucky Derby next Saturday.

Every inch the odds-on favorite because of three straight victories this year as a three-year-old, Johnstown went through his paces under the watchful eyes of Trainer "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons' aides. Aside from getting the feel of the Downs track, the remarkable son of Jamestown will be saved for turfdom's greatest chase for a $50,000 pot o' gold and lasting glory.

While Johnstown practiced, Technician went through his usual methodical routine before going to the wire in the derby trial in the afternoon, in which he was favored over a half score other derby eligibles entered in the $2,500 mile feature. Already Technician has won the $25,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah and the Daniel Boone event at the Downs last Saturday. Victory today would put him on a par with Johnstown for 1939 accomplishments.

El Chico, who with T. M. Dorsett arrived with Johnstown to complete the circle of derby "big guns," came to the Downs in perfect condition and despite his loss to Johnstown in the Wood Memorial is expected to have good backing on Saturday.

Johnstown went through his paces under the watchful eyes of Trainer "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons' aides.
Aside from getting the feel of the Downs track, the remarkable son of Jamestown will be saved for turfdom's greatest chase for a $50,000 pot of gold and lasting glory.

While Johnstown practiced, Technician went through his usual methodical routine before going to the wire in the derby trial in the afternoon, in which he was favored over a half score other derby eligibles entered in the $2,500 mile feature. Already Technician has won the $25,000 Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah and the Daniel Boone event at the Downs last Saturday.
Victory today would put him on a par with Johnstown for 1939 accomplishments.

El Chico, who with T. M. Dorsett arrived with Johnstown to complete the circle of derby "big guns," came to the Downs in perfect condition and despite his loss to Johnstown in the Wood Memorial is expected to have good backing on Saturday.

Stratton Gets $25,000; Dizzy Finds Arm Sore

CHICAGO, May 2—Vice President Harry Grabner of the Chicago White Sox announced today that the exhibition game yesterday between the Sox and the Cubs for the benefit of Monty Stratton will net the former pitcher from $25,000 to $30,000.

Total attendance was 25,954, but because many tickets were not turned in at the gate it will be several days before an exact accounting of the take can be made, Grabner said.

MUHLENBERG SCHOOL DISTRICT PATRONS ASK TRANSFER TO JACKSON

44 SIGN NAMES IN APPEAL TO COUNTY BOARD

Citizens Believe State's Suggestion To Merge With Monroe Wrong

FOX BUILDING CLOSER

Action To Be Taken At Educator's Session Wednesday Eve

A petition for the transfer of a part of the Muhlenberg rural school district to the Jackson township district will be considered Wednesday at 8 p. m. by the county board of education.

The petition will probably be accepted by the board and tabled for 30 days, the time required to give an opportunity for filing of protests.

Filing of the petition with the county board is the result of the recent action of the State High School board in annulling the Muhlenberg high school's charter due to low enrollment, a problem that has been faced by the district for many years. The charter was annulled effective June 30, 1939.

The petition tosses a new problem before the county board that will probably be discussed with the department of education before any action is taken. A recommendation was made by the State High School board that Muhlenberg high school be joined with Monroe township. Transfer of territory from the Muhlenberg district to the Jackson district will affect the grade school of Muhlenberg township.

Closer To Jackson

Reason given in the petition for the transfer is "That the said residents are closer to the Jackson rural school than to any other school to which they might be assigned and that they prefer to send their children to the Jackson township school."

The territory that is involved in the proposed transfer is that on the east side of Darby creek. The territory is bounded on the west side by Darby creek, on the south and east sides by the Muhlenberg township lines and on the north by the Five Points-South Bloomfield road.

The Muhlenberg township school has an enrollment of only 120 pupils, including 88 in the grades and 32 in the high school. Rumors are to the effect there may be other petitions submitted to the board from electors of the district asking transfers of territory.

The signers of the petition are: Elzie Brooks, Fannie Brooks, Glenn Hamilton, Rose Hamilton, Nelson Walters, Eloise Walters, Richard Peters, Martha Belle Peters, Thomas Essex, Vasco Brown, Thomas Ferguson, Olgie Ferguson, A. Timmons, Louisa Timmons, Glen L. Timmons, Hazel Mowery, N. I. Mowery, Stella Leist, M. A. Leist, Sarah A. Woolver, W. H. Woolver, Bessie Come, Henry Siniff, Maggie Siniff, John Bougher, Ida B. ## Father of Six Suspected As Author of Threats

NEW YORK, May 2—Talbot D. Harrison, 45, a mild-mannered father of six children who daily dished out thousands of nickels from his change booth to hurrying subway passengers was under observation in Bellevue hospital today as the suspected author of 200 handwritten letters threatening harm to President Roosevelt and other prominent persons.

With Harrison's arrest as he finished work last night it was disclosed that the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. had been under special guard since Sept. 28, 1938, when it received a warning threatening a more disastrous explosion than the one which killed 30 persons in 1920.

Others threatened were Mayor F. H. La Guardia, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Head G-Man J. Edgar Hoover, Police Chief James H. Ricker of Hempstead, L. I., where Harrison lived and the Pinkerton detective agency.

Police said Harrison made a statement and explained he had become mentally upset by a quarrel with his neighbors.

Study of the postmarks of the letters which were mailed over a three year period convinced secret service agents their author resided on Long Island and changed trains in Brooklyn to reach lower Manhattan where he worked. Finally they narrowed their clues down to Hempstead, L. I., and then to a daily commuters' train. All passengers were one day asked to sign and answer a fictitious questionnaire. After a study of signatures, Harrison was suspected and arrested.

"Busy as a bee" is right. In our rounds today among the several whom we contacted, was one Sam Gregg planting peas and so far as our judgment would let us go and stick to the truth, would say he was doing a good job of it. He took enough time out to show us his nice Plymouth Rock hens, his squirrel house and two colonies of honey bees and these were really busy and glad to say they paid no attention to us, coming into the hives with great loads of dandelion pollen fastened to their legs. Others threatened were Mayor F. H. La Guardia, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Head G-Man J. Edgar Hoover, Police Chief James H. Ricker of Hempstead, L. I., where Harrison lived and the Pinkerton detective agency.

Police said Harrison made a statement and explained he had become mentally upset by a quarrel with his neighbors.

Study of the postmarks of the letters which were mailed over a three year period convinced secret service agents their author resided on Long Island and changed trains in Brooklyn to reach lower Manhattan where he worked. Finally they narrowed their clues down to Hempstead, L. I., and then to a daily commuters' train. All passengers were one day asked to sign and answer a fictitious questionnaire. After a study of signatures, Harrison was suspected and arrested.

"Busy as a bee" is right. In our rounds today among the several whom we contacted, was one Sam Gregg planting peas and so far as our judgment would let us go and stick to the truth, would say he was doing a good job of it. He took enough time out to show us his nice Plymouth Rock hens, his squirrel house and two colonies of honey bees and these were really busy and glad to say they paid no attention to us, coming into the hives with great loads of dandelion pollen fastened to their legs. The squirrel was not at home, out on a visit somewhere, Mr. Gregg thought.

From Mr. Gregg's place came through the alley to the old school yard, now Mr. Hinkle's, and which is being carefully raked following the plowing, for not only to make it ready for lawn seeding, but real gold had been found there but a few days ago.

And just across from the "gold diggers" were brothers John and Bill Curry and St. Smith seated at the block factory going over politics and everything in general and particularly told of how good they were on Halloween night and how real black crepe had got on Uncle Dave Brobst's campaign ash pole at Mary when Blaine lost the election for President and Uncle Dave didn't like that kind of treatment a bit.

Roe Dummick, the son-in-law, and later Pickaway county sheriff, knew all about the crepe on the pole. And too, Uncle Dave's wife, "Aunt Celish," as she was known to everyone and a Democrat, had furnished the black decoration.

The village council was in session Monday evening, paid bills and talked over some of the things which will be in for the doing when once the mornings quit being so frosty, but in the meantime hundreds of loads of

CASTING CLUB TO START OPERATIONS DURING WEEK

Preliminary details were ironed out Monday night for the organization of a Casting club at a meeting of anglers held in The Circleville Herald offices.

Anglers decided to establish dues at $1 a year to cover expenses. Election of officers will be held at a meeting to be called in the near future.

Targets will be placed in the pond at the county home within a few days for fly and bait casters to start practice. Arrangements will be worked out later for contests.

Permission to use the pond at the county home has been granted by county officials. It is estimated that at least 50 Circleville men are interested in fly and bait casting.
